2011 Academic Conference
Eastern Woodlands Major Battles

April 16, 2011

John Jay Center for Learning
101 South Meridian Street, Portland, Indiana

Although the earliest contacts between the Native American peoples and the European settlers in what is now the United States were friendly, various factors created conflicts between the settlers and the tribes. These conflicts expanded as the frontier moved westward, with the settlers taking more and more land that had previously supported the tribal peoples, forcing the natives away from their lands and their way of life. The conflicts expanded into full warfare, which was usually terminated through treaties. The treaties required more land cessations by the tribes, furthering expansion of the frontier, causing new conflicts.

Registration before April 9 is $30, $20 for students with photo identification. Late registrations are $35. Lunch is included. Contact Co-Chairs: Boni Bent Nelson at 574-225-9340 or bolnelso@iusb.edu or Pat Broom at 513-874-8037 or bobbroom@aol.com for more information. Please park in the gravel lot behind the Post Office, next to the John Jay Center. The street parking on Meridian and Main Streets has 2 hour limits, even on Saturdays.
